National VMCCA Car Database - Mike Derbidge

The VMCCA is developing a database of cars owned by our members to better gauge our tours and events – make the sponsored activities something that we will be able to attend. Perhaps in our area a tour for older cars would be better than a muscle car tour; or we could find out that there are lots of muscle cars in the area and we are missing a touring opportunity. The information will be gathered and confidential; they are hoping to have an evolutionary list that is continually updated. As Regional Director of VMCCA, Brian Edgerton is responsible for gathering the information.

Eastern Idaho Chapter VMCCA – Business Cards – Joy Eagle will have a list at the club "Coffee & Pie" booth at the Swap Meet. Please stop by to confirm the information on the club register for accuracy for your cards.

My Little Pony, 50 Years Later

(Note: Article from New York Times, April 4, 2014)

When the Ford Mustang was introduced 50 years ago, it was first to break from the gate in a market class that would come to be known as pony cars.

With a long hood and a short rear deck — proportions carried forward by the Chevrolet Camaro, Plymouth Barracuda and many others — the Mustang looked ready to bolt. And bolt it did, as 22,000 wowed Americans placed orders for the car on April 17, according to Ford, the official first day of sales.

Naming the car for a horse proved to be a stroke of marketing genius. Not just any horse, mind you (a car named Clydesdale might never have been so popular) but one that conjured images of rugged wild horses roaming the American West: The drama that imagery invoked was supported by the car’s fresh style and a galloping steed front and center in the grille.

Underneath, the Mustang was essentially Ford’s Falcon, a solid compact that was available with V8 power and a 4-speed manual transmission. Those underpinnings were enough to get the pony car sales competition off to a fast start.

Among the fans who will be celebrating the Mustang’s 50th birthday will be some owners who bought the car when it first went on sale. Here are the stories of some early buyers who could never let go. Read more at:

President's Message

Summer is officially here and we are in the last stretch before our annual Father's Day Swap Meet and Car Show at Tautphaus Park in Idaho Falls. Anyone who hasn't had a chance to sign up – we could use some help with tear down on Sunday June 15th.

This summer will be busy as usual with all the fun car activities and I hope to see you all at some of them. Those of you who are lucky enough to be registered for the Utah cruise be sure to take lots of pictures to share with those at home.

Everyone have a great Fourth of July, have fun and drive safely.

Larry
